

MEETING YOUR UNIQUE CHALLENGES HEAD ON

When seeking financial and accounting advisors, government contractors require those with a grip on their unique needs and an understanding of the rules and regulations imposed on their specific business sector. With more than 25 years of experience, the government contractor team at Warren Averett possesses a broad and deep understanding of the challenges contractors face and the changing environment in which they operate.

We know that a contractor's success is dependent upon a knowledgeable team of professionals. Our team seeks to help contractors be successful and avoid the current pitfalls of regulatory noncompliance.

Our advisors also understand that contractors, who supply a wide variety of products and services to their customers, also want to align with a firm that can address financial and accounting needs in a timely and experienced way. Warren Averett prides itself on providing the highest value that only comes from regular communication with our clients and a deep understanding of the issues.

CUSTOMIZED SOLUTIONS

Our professionals are trained to identify the unique issues relevant to government contractors and then offer customized solutions, from both financial statement and tax perspectives, to help you achieve your goals. We maintain a vast network of resources suited to the industry, including attorneys, bankers and other experts to address requirements of the Federal Acquisition Regulation, cost accounting standards, cost allocation structures, pre-award audits, claims and disputes.

Premier Project Software

When you need a project accounting solution, Warren Averett sells, installs and provides support for Deltek GCS Premier Software, a premier product in government contracting.

As an added benefit, Warren Averett sells, installs and provides support for Deltek GCS Premier Software, which is considered to be the premier project accounting solution in the government contracting industry. It is designed to be compliant with DCAA requirements for cost accounting systems and manages corporate finances and project accounting for small and mid-size companies who sell services to the U.S. government. Warren Averett is a named Deltek Partner.

The proximity of our team members and the offices where they reside are in government hubs or near large military installations, further ensuring services are suited to the specific needs of the contractor who supports the armed services.

Accordingly, we are actively involved in supporting or sponsoring activities of the government contracting community, including Women in Defense and the GEOINT.

If you are a firm currently seeking to do business with the government or one that has a history of working with the government, Warren Averett will assemble a service team well-matched to the stage of your business and the specific issues and challenges you encounter in government contracting.

“Warren Averett is proud of its over 25 years of government contracting experience and dedication to customizing solutions to government contractors.”
