Michael Day is a Senior Manager in the firm's Audit & Assurance Practice, where he oversees the planning, execution and completion of audit engagements and works directly with clients to understand their business operations, financial reporting processes and internal controls. Michael also leads audit teams through complex engagements, particularly in the government contracting and construction industries. He is adept at managing audits for both small and large businesses, including private and publicly traded companies with revenues ranging from $10 million to $4 billion. Michael's expertise in first-year engagements ensures that clients receive thorough and reliable audit services. He has over eight years of experience in public accounting, which includes six years with Big 4 firms. Michael resides in Birmingham with his wife Megan and their two children, Bridges and Winston.
